

Professor, U.S. Army War College Program

The U.S. Army War College (USAWC) is committed to providing our graduates the highest quality educational experience possible. A fully qualified faculty is key to achieving this goal. To promote an appropriate blend of military experience and civilian academic credentials among the USAWC faculty, the Chief of Staff, Army has authorized the establishment of the Professor, USAWC Program.

Under this program, the Commandant, USAWC, will identify serving active duty officers to attend advanced civil schooling at premier educational institutions and programs. The officers will earn a doctorate in a field aligned with the curriculum of the USAWC and serve on the USAWC faculty until their mandatory retirement. Those officers will serve in one of the USAWC's teaching departments: Department of Command, Leadership, and Management (DCLM); Department of Distance Education (DDE); Department of Military Strategy, Plans, and Operations (DMSPO); and Department of National Security and Strategy (DNSS).

Two officers will be enrolled annually. The department and respective academic discipline will be determined based upon the needs of the USAWC. Illustrative academic disciplines, by department, include:

Department of Command, Leadership, and Management: Social and Behavioral Sciences, Management, or Information Systems.

Department of Distance Education: U.S. Military History (modern).

Department of Military Strategy, Plans and Operations: Military History.

Department of National Security and Strategy: Political Science, International Relations, American Government, or Security Studies.

Principal responsibilities for Professors, USAWC include academic leadership, teaching, and scholarship. Specific duties include teaching core curriculum, as well as graduate-level electives; faculty development; service on faculty committees; and research. Dedication to excellence in teaching is an absolute requirement. Officers desiring to enroll in the program should have previous college-level or professional teaching experience. They also should hold a master's degree in a pertinent field, allowing them to obtain a Ph.D. within two years. Applicants must have a strong commitment to the educational, military, physical, and ethical development of USAWC students. Applicants should possess an exemplary military record that includes success in leadership and staff positions at the strategic level. Enrollment in or completion of Senior Service College is required. Candidates should have no more than 22 years of service at the time of their application. Women and minority candidates are highly encouraged to apply.
